The Latest Version of the National Broadband Map is Now Publicly Available

You may view the map, which shows where broadband service is and is not available, at broadbandmap.gov. This most recent version of the map includes new information – specifically, refined location and internet availability data.

On this version of the map, released November 17, 2023, there are over 25,000 more Broadband Serviceable Locations identified in Tribal areas than the previous version, and over 70,000 more Broadband Serviceable Locations than the first pre-production draft of the map. The map also shows more refined availability data in Tribal communities due to resolved challenges, the FCC's verification and audit efforts, and our continued work with providers as they refine their data matching and reporting.

The National Broadband Map is an evolving data collection and has been providing more precise internet availability data with each update. While we have made significant improvements in the identification of Broadband Serviceable Location data in Tribal areas, we encourage you to review the map for your community. If you identify any remaining locations that are missing or misidentified, or availability data which you believe is inaccurate, you may submit a challenge to help improve the data.

- Information about how to submit a Location challenge is available at: <https://help.bdc.fcc.gov/hc/en-us/articles/10475216120475-How-to-Submit-a-Location-Challenge->
- Information about how to submit an Availability challenge is available at: <https://help.bdc.fcc.gov/hc/en-us/articles/10476040597787-How-to-Submit-an-Availability-Challenge>

Apply for the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program

USAC and the FCC are now accepting applications to participate in the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program.

To apply for the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program, libraries must complete a brief questionnaire detailing information about your library, your IT needs, and your readiness to participate in the E-Rate program.

Please note that participating in the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program will provide your library with training and support to apply for E-Rate funding. Your library will still have to complete the E-Rate application process.

Based on last year's Pilot Program, libraries that were most successful in applying for E-Rate funding had support and participation from Tribal leadership, library leadership, and IT leadership. We encourage interested libraries to engage those groups when applying for the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program.

Click here for more information.

Need Help? If you have questions about the Tribal Libraries Pilot Program or the E-Rate program, please contact USAC at TribalTraining@usac.org.
