Bringing Connectivity to Your Community

OBAE Acting Director to Speak at Fiber Broadband Association's 2024 Regional Fiber Connect Workshop Series in Albuquerque

The Fiber Broadband Association's 2024 Regional Fiber Connect Workshop Series will make a stop in Albuquerque on November 7.

The event is designed to bring in broadband industry professionals to discuss and share the best ways to deploy fiber broadband. The workshop will include panels and educational sessions, covering topics such as emerging trends, innovative technologies, and regulatory considerations.

OBAE Acting Director Drew Lovelace will take part in a panel.

Come join us as Lovelace discusses how fiber has played a key role in New Mexico as the state continues to help deploy broadband across the state. Lovelace will also address the various projects and programs that are underway across New Mexico.

The agenda has been hand-crafted to focus on topics related to providing fiber connectivity on Tribal lands, leveraging funding opportunities, and developing a strong workforce.

There will be more than 30 companies exhibiting at the event, showcasing their products and solutions, and FBA is expecting around 200-300 attendees, so there are plenty of networking opportunities.

This is an event that is focused on education. FBA wants to provide registrants with as much information as possible to help ease fiber deployments in the areas that need it most.
